"Sophomore Indy Lights driver and his SPM crew completed a successful day of testing at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway ahead of the first oval race of the season."

Fort Collins, Colorado - Scott Anderson, driver of the #77 Schmidt Peterson Motorsports Indy Lights car has been logging the miles and capturing critical information as the biggest race of the 2015 Indy Lights season takes place this week, all part of the running of the 99th Indianapolis, 500.

"The Freedom 100 is the race I've been most looking forward to all year," comments Anderson from Indianapolis. "It's always such a close, competitive race and this year is looking to be the same."

The Indy Lights field took to the famous 2.5 mile super speedway on Monday, May 18th to get everyone up to speed on how the new IL15 will handle the high speeds seen at 'The Brickyard'. Anderson was able to complete all the planned laps and run through the long list of specifications set out by the team's engineering group.

"We have one day of testing under our belts and made some significant progress on getting the car to run well in traffic," continued Anderson. "The Schmidt Peterson Motorsports guys know this place well and I'm confident we will have a car that will be able to complete for the win."

Anderson, and the #77 Anderson Podiatry Centers Indy Lights entry, with support from Hull & Knarr, LLP, will hit the Speedway on Thursday, May 21st for practice and then qualifying, followed by the 250 mile, 100 lap race on Friday, May 22nd.
